Future of Behavioral Health

With passion and expertise, Richard speaks about Behavioral Health and helps organizations understand today's healthcare challenges and opportunities. At Diamond we call it The Power of Clarity. Richard gets providers thinking not only what they should be doing today, or even next year, but how to position themselves for long-term sustainability. What are the questions to ask? What population health strategy should be developed to integrate behavioral health with primary care? Where is the market going, who's paying, and what's the best way to measure quality patient care?

He is the perfect choice to add to your presenter's panel or for a standalone behavioral health presentation at State Hospital Association meetings, Hospital and Healthcare Conferences, Hospital GPO Conferences or other healthcare institutions.
